STREAM
Studies of Translation, Ethics and Medicine

Postdoctoral Fellow in Biomedical Ethics / Decision Science

McGill Biomedical Ethics Unit / Studies of Translation, Ethics, and Medicine (STREAM) is inviting applications for a postdoctoral research fellow (PDF) with a background in the decision sciences, psychology, or clinical trials.

The project will use elicitation methods to examine how well researchers and others can forecast risks, benefits, and feasibility of clinical trials.

The PDF will work under the supervision of Jonathan Kimmelman, alongside several co-investigators (David Mandel, Ian Shrier, Alex London, Jamie Brehaut, Dean Fergusson, and Russell Steele). Responsibilities will include collecting elicitations, designing and implementing components of the project, analysis of findings, and evaluating policy and ethical dimensions. The PDF is encouraged to develop his or her own research within the scope of the project, and to publish both team and independently authored manuscripts.

We anticipate a starting date of Summer 2014, depending on availability. The successful candidate should have recently been awarded (within 5 years*) a PhD in the decision sciences, psychology, statistics, or clinical epidemiology. Knowledge of research ethics is a plus. The term of hiring is one year, renewable for up to an additional year.

Review of applications will proceed on a rolling basis and will continue until the position is filled. Applications should include a cover letter describing research interests, a CV, a writing sample, and the contact information for 3 references.
